THE CITY.

Indications. WASHINGTON, Nov. 13, 1 A. M. - For Texas. Fair weather, except in Southern Texas, local rains, slight change in temperature, light variable winds.

BUSINESS OFFICE HOURS.

The counting room of THE GAZETTE will be open until 8 p. m. every day in the week. Advertisers will please bring in their favors before that hour. The foreman of the composing room will accept after that hour only such advertisements as are accompanied by the cash at regular rates, as he has no authority to make, and knows nothing about existing contracts.

PERSONAL.

Mr. A. M. Jones of Gainesville is in town. Sheriff Lewis of Dallas was in the city yesterday. Mr. John F. Belcher of Gainesville is at the Pickwick. Captain J. A. H. Hosack was in the city yesterday. Mr. George B. Lyne returned last night from Kentucky. Mr. R. L. Taylor spends Sunday with his family in Arlington. J. A. Nelson and wife of Denver, Col., are guests of the Ellises. Mrs. Ed Warren continues to improve and her school will be resumed tomorrow. Mrs. E. W. Province returned yesterday from a visit to her old home at Memphis, Tenn. Sheriff Shipp has been quite sick for several days, and it is thought that he is threatened with pneumonia. Judge O. E. Dunlap of Waxahatchie has been a close attendant at the Methodist conference now in session at this place. Dr. C. Pope, president of Millersburg Female College, Ky., will preach at the Main Street Methodist church Sunday morning. Mr. W. H. Kirkham leaves this morning for a stay at an old friend's in New York state, and says he means to talk Fort Worth all the time. A. A. Neely, familiarly styled "Doc," the clever citizen who handles the keys of the county jail, starts this morning on a visit to his old home at Covington, Ga.

LOCALETTES.

In consequence of the doctor's absence there will be no service at St. Andrews' to-day. A verdict in favor of the B. C. Evans Co. vs. Henry Schwartz, on notes, was rendered yesterday. "Right about-face," when you are coming up town, and fix your gaze for a short time on E. W. Wells' show window. The Dallas fair is over and the veterans are gone, but somehow the hotel registers continue to show up good lists of names. William Thomas, accused of perjury in the noted Mathew murder case, entered into recognizance yesterday in the District court, furnishing $800 bond. Miss Hattie L. Nash wishes to inform all friends and patrons that she has removed her school to the Hartsfield building on Weatherford street, first door west of the Grand Hotel, rooms 5, 6 and 7. E. W. Wells has always borne the reputation of keeping a quiet and orderly house, but "Rockets" are becoming a very common thing lately, and since the public have found out how good they are you can't induce them to smoke any other kind of cigar. Dr. W. W. Routh will resume his practice, having offices in the Peers building. During the doctor's protracted absence he attended a special course of lectures, and has devoted the entire time to the study of his profession, visiting several of our leading offices in the furtherance of the same. A number of young men and ladies from different parts of this and other states have entered the Business College this week. Professor Paulitt had a splendid exhibit at the state fair, and thousands of people examined the work and methods used by the students of this popular college. Such enterprises always wins.

Another C. I. & S. O. Organized.

The first Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle having enrolled the full number of members allowed by its constitution, a second circle has been organized and will hold its next regular meeting Monday evening, November 14 at 7:30 o'clock at the chapel of the Texas Wesleyan College. An excellent program illustrating the characters and worth of the circle has been arranged. All persons wishing to join this second circle are invited to attend promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

Probate Court.

The following orders were made by Judge Furman yesterday: W. W. Purinton was appointed guardian of the estate of Arthur B. Parinor, minor, and bond placed at $2000. The will of Henry Byrne was probated and Martin Casey appointed administrator at $2000 bond. Elizabeth S. Proctor's will was probated and George W. Crossman appointed executor, and bond placed at $12,000.

Set aside the Verdict.

Not long since a verdict was obtained in the District court by M. M. Lester, an aged lady, against the Texas and Pacific for $12,500 for damages by the death of her son, for which the railroad company was held responsible. As it was proved that the deceased contributed $200 a year to his mother's support, and as at that rate she would have lived far into her second century before realizing the $12,500 allowed, Judge Beckham yesterday set aside the verdict as excessive.

Public Speaking.

Quite a large number of the laboring men of the city assembled at Deggett's hall last night in obedience to a call published in THE GAZETTE, to hear from Mr. A. A. Carson, one of the general executive board of the Knights of Labor. Mr. Carson, District Master Workman W. E. Farmer and the inimitable "Stump" Ambly delivered short addresses, which were listened to with much pleasure. The tone of each address was moderate and conservative, urging thought and education among the masses. Everything passed off nicely, and the meeting is said to have done much good in the order.

One Dollar For Dime.

For some time the mind of County Attorney Carlock has been interested in finding out whether convicts engaged in public work, as for instance, working the county roads, were entitled to $1 for every day they handled the pick or spade, or only twenty-five cents. The idea has been that the smaller of the two sums was all that they were allowed in liquidation of fines. Yesterday, however, on a writ of habeas corpus Judge Beckham ordered the release of Bennett Patterson, who had already worked on the roads as many days as he has been fined $30 would have to serve the county four months at two bits per day, and but one month if allowed $1. The intention of the lawmakers is said to have been evidently to fix the minimum allowance, but with that least mental acumen so characteristic of the average legislator, the statute does not somehow express the idea so clearly. In other words the dollar allowance goes.

NATURE PERFECTED.

The Science of Canning Fruits and Vegetables. An Unlimited List of Voluntary Donations to Batavia Canned Goods in This City.

Two car-loads of this celebrated brand of canned goods has arrived.

There is, perhaps, no greater luxury for the table than a first-class article of canned fruits or vegetables. We offer to the trade and the consumer's brand that is, without doubt, the best put up. Try a can of Batavia asparagus or of pickled cherries, and we make the assertion that you will find them of better quality than the same goods usually found fresh in their regular seasons. The corn and tomatoes are just without an equal. Below we give you a list of Batavia canned goods, and if you wish something nice make a trial order.

BATAVIA LIST.

- 24 pound Pitted Batavia Cherries.

Hoss Wimmie Case.

Hoss Wimmie is a noted colored character of this city. The exact orthography of his name is puzzling, and that genial and accomplished Deputy Judge Boyd owned up to a GAZETTE man yesterday that it was a matter of uncertainty whether it should be spelled "Hoss" or "Horse," seeing that it appeared both ways on the court records. The way the name happened to get in court at all was that his ebony hued possessor lately brought suit to recover $10,000 of the city through damages alleged to be occasioned by a sewer pipe passing through his castle. The jury thought $885 enough and so made return. Yesterday the city attorney moved for a new trial, but Judge Beckham overruled it and the case will go to the higher courts.

Grander than Ever.

Everyone who has lived in Fort Worth any length of time, is familiar with the gorgeous display of fruits, candies and Christmas toys Messrs. Capera & Bro. have always made for the holidays. With their progressive ideas, never failing energy and desire to outstrip all others, our people are sure to see Christmas, 1887, at Capera & Bro.'s far ahead of all previous efforts at grandeur and magnificence.

Remember they conduct a safe in connection with the confederacy, where special order meals are served promptly and as satisfactorily.

A FINE BEVERAGE.

A Table Luxury that Has No Superior.

The time for palming off spurious articles of food upon the American public is past. Science has demonstrated the fact that adulterations in Tea is the most harmful in its effects. The polishing, twisting and coloring necessary to prepare it for the American market requires the aid of chemicals that are beyond a doubt injurious to the organs of digestion. In presenting THE NO-TEA to the public we sincerely believe we are distributing blessings, on account of its purity and rich flavor. Nothing but the pure leaves are used, as is evident upon a close inspection. It does not present a false appearance, but when drawn THE NO-TEA at once makes it most favorable impression. The tea can be supplied by the Fort Worth Grocer Co., at importers prices.—Sunday Mirror.

THE METHODISTS.

Synopsis of the Fourth Day's Conference Proceedings—Interesting Addresses at Night on Mission Work.

Dr. Barbee Delivers Another Admirable Talk—A Missionary from the Panhandle—To-Day's Programme.

The ministers and lay delegates were in their seats promptly at the appointed time when conference met for the fourth day's work. Bishop Wilson presided and Dr. Barbee of Nashville conducted the religious exercise. After the reading and adoption of the previous day's minutes question twenty was resumed, and the character of some sixty minutes passed upon. Rev. H. M. Giass, charged with immoral conduct, after due investigation was acquitted of the charge. Rev. D. C. Strange stood charged with immorality, of which he was declared not guilty, but in the opinion of the committee he had acted imprudently, and was deserving of a reprimand from the Bishop. The latter performed the task with extreme delicacy, congratulating the minister on his acquittal of the charge, and at the same time cautioning him as to the necessity of preserving an unspotted reputation.

An interesting feature of the session was the induction of four young ministers into full church connection. They were Revs. John R. Hanson, Emmett Hightower, Charles V. Oswald and Thomas Duncan. They had gone through the embryo period and were now ready to take up the regular responsibilities of ministerial life. The bishop made a beautiful talk directed particularly to them. He acquainted them with the duties they were about to shoulder and the important relations they bore to the church. He told them they would not be sent out in an official capacity merely, but as representatives of God. They must have solid and the spirit of the Savior must dwell within them. Men were not selected to preach the virtues of the gospel because of their genius and culture. We often accept men, said he, messengers endowed intellectually, but prophetically blessed spiritually. The force and material of such men are acquired in a devout search of God's work. Paul, thoroughly trained in the law, as he was, spoke to men only of his spiritual converse with God and his third ascent into heaven. Men of rounded character of mind and morals were best capacitated to do the Lord's work. He admonished them to heed not the great efforts made to divorce this world from the Kingdom of God. The world would lead astray a few weak brothers of the flock, but your faith in the immutable laws of God should be such as to relieve you from an association with men exercising an individual right of thought in contradiction to church doctrines. Had fast to fast principles, but don't fall into temptation. Study and endeavor to learn new truths from the gospel. "I have little respect for the man," he said, "who is content with the fact that he professed religion twenty-five years ago." Look after the children and build up your Sunday schools. Let character and dignity signal your actions. Submit yourself to the discipline of your church, and be prompt in every appointment. Pay attention to small matters, as they sometimes speak volumes.

At the conclusion of his remarks the Bishop administered to the four the solemn vows that consecrated their lives to the service of God.

The application of W. G. Veal, previously excluded for restoration, was the subject of some discussion. Rev. Horace Bishop of Waco affirmed that the applicant had not been taken back according to church discipline, but since his expulsion he had become and was still a member of a Congregationalist church at Dallas. The pastor of this church, Rev. O. A. Thompson, stated that during his absence he had learned that Mr. Veal joined his church in good faith. The bishop announced that action in the case would be postponed. The last thing prior to adjournment was an address by Dr. Rankin in the interest of the American Bible Association.

The Missionary.

Owing to the somewhat threatening weather, the Fourth street church was not quite so crowded as on the previous night, but there was nevertheless a large attendance. After the reading of some statistics relative to mission work, Rev. W. L. Harris was introduced to the conference as having 10,000 square miles of territory in the Panhandle of Texas in which to prosecute mission work. Mr. Harris made a very interesting talk. It took him, he said, a journey of 650 miles in his two wheel cart to make the circuit of his appointments. He camped alone in the solitude of the plains, yet he was not lonely, for he felt that he was in the midst of a single family. He had preached in the railroad camps with men of the roughest stamp for auditors, and yet no harm had ever been offered him. He had preached in dugouts (holes in the ground) and felt that God blessed his labors.

After Mr. Harris finished Dr. Barbee took the floor and after a few words of high compliment to the young Panhandle missionary made a characteristic and eloquent talk on the subject of foreign missions. As for domestic missions the speaker thought the term was a misnomer and ought to be done away with. The doctor then took up the old objection to sending representatives of Christ into pagan lands, viz.: its uselessness. He said that the direct command was to go among all nations and preach the gospel. The knowledge of the Bible brought to these more light and responsibilities, but infinitely grander opportunities and higher capacities for enjoying life in its nobler and more elevated phases. More would be saved by the gospel, so he contended, than without it. Then came the practical application of the talk: Somebody has to be sent to do this work, and the money must be forthcoming. The oft heard charge of corruption in the handling of missionary funds was refuted vigorously. The response of the audience in the way of cash donations showed that the eloquent doctor's remarks had been of good effect.

REVIEWS.

Dr. J. W. Heidt goes to Dallas this morning, where he will occupy the pulpit of the Methodist church.

Rev. T. W. Rogers was sent down to Cleburne to preach this morning.

Conference will probably conclude its labors by tomorrow afternoon or Tuesday at farthest.

Some resolutions, highly commendatory of the past labors of Rev. W. P. Wilson, pastor of the Fourth street M. E. church, were handed Bishop Wilson yesterday.

The new M. E. church is ample for ordinary occasions, but it will hardly hold the congregation that will gather there to hear Bishop Wilson this morning.

Night Bell Answered.

At all hours of the night, Threlkeld & Lyne, druggists, will answer calls of their night bell. Every customer who calls at night will receive prescriptions filled at night, and there comes a remedy that entirely overcomes the whole trouble, and all that is necessary is to bear the above in mind.

The City National Bank.

This old and well established bank has put on a new dress, so to speak. Colonel M. Britton, who has been its president for a number of years, and Mr. S. W. L. max, who has been a director during the same period, have both resigned, having sold their interests and entirely severed their connection with the bank. As will be seen in another column, where the proceedings are published, the directors passed resolutions appreciative of their faithful and valuable services.

It will be a source of gratification to the friends of the bank to learn that Mr. J. Q. Sandidge has accepted the presidency and taken the place of Colonel Britton. Mr. Sandidge's name in itself is a tower of financial strength in this country. We are informed, however, that Mr. Sandidge, although he will continue in the directory, only intends to retain the office of president until some young and more active man shall be inducted into the position.

Mr. C. B. Daggett, Jr., and Mr. Charles Schenker of the old directory yet remain, and they, together with the other new directors, Mr. Max Elser and Mr. C. M. Crane, constitute a directory which cannot be excelled for financial ability, integrity and conservative liberality.

Mr. Daggett retains the office of vice-president and Mr. Elser that of cashier.

We predict for this bank a prosperous future.

The Tie Game.

This afternoon at the new ball park the Denison and Fort Worth teams will play to decide the tie now existing between these redoubtable champions.
